trouble went their way about the grounds, while others searched for three machines which had disappeared during the riot, after being stolen from the prison. The riot was the worst in the prison's long history.

Prisoners state that they brought machines gun to the prison, the guards used the weapons to beat the rioting prisoners back into their cells.

Three, pistols and five were used by the prisoners in a desperate attempt to gain their freedom.

The result of the attempted prison break was as follows:

Two convicts killed.

Four guards shot, one seriously.

Five convicts escaped, approximately $50,000.

Prison authorities reported that the revolt was led by 50 or more long-term convicts.

Prisoners captured the main gate and then stormed the main gate.

Four buildings were fired.

Two thirds of the guards were out duty, but the handful in the prison held the rioters back.

The four prisoners who escaped:

George Small, 25, of New York City serving a term of 12 years for robbery.

Joseph Caprio, 20.

Arthur Barry, 29, serving 20 years for burglary.

Steve Pavoli, 29, serving life as a fourth offender.

SEIZED RIFLES

In the first mad rush the convicts captured the prison arsenal and weapons the Clinton prison rioters had been armed only with crude weapons.

Prisoners captured the arsenal's tools, the convicts were sufficiently equipped to stage a real battle in the prison yard.

The riot began when a trusty, whose name has not been disclosed, stole across the yard to the prison gate, took out his gun, fired and the riot broke out.

As the prisoners swept in, they matched Osborne's keys from his pocket and headed for the arsenal.

There they seized every available gun and rushed the gates.

LEAP WALLS TO FREEDOM

Arthur Barry, on guard at the gates, saw the mob advancing, looked the gates and threw the key to the wall.

Under the menace of leveled rifles, Barry backed up the stairs to the wall and the rioters rushed guardhouse near the main gate.

He was followed by four convicts, one of whom carried a machine gun.

While the mob covered the prison yard, three swept the street in front of the prison with rifles.

Under the threat of machine gun fire, then the four leaped from the wall to the street.

Meanwhile, back in the prison yard, the rest of the rioting convicts battled vainly to break through the main gate.

Several, pistols and shotguns in the arsenal was snatched by the rioters.

Four convicts were seized, but one, escaped beyond use by unexpected hands.

At least 40 convicts reached the main gates and swarmed through.

Four escaped in two automobiles parked outside the prison.

The criminal complex deserted itself in the minds of the rioters.

They were well armed, in a position to wipe out the guards, they thought, as they returned to the prison yard to organize their forces and effect a general delivery of the riot.

GUARDS SHUT GATES

The guards seized their opportunity. The gates were slammed shut and the emergency bolts shot.

Extra guards sprang to their posts and the convicts found themselves trapped in the prison.

Double-barreled rifles were fired and guards rapidly filling the prison.

Observers said Crickham apparently had lost too much speed in dropping over the airport, causing the plane to slide as he started up again.

He succeeded in leveling the plane, but lost more speed, and the plane fell on the concrete apron.

St. Louis Flier Up 383 Hours; Begin 17th Day

St. Louis, July 28—With less than a day to go to reach the 400-hour mark for a sustained flight, the St. Louis Robin lastly dropped over the field.

The pilot, Dale "Red" Jackson, and a co-pilot, kept it in its usual circle as they added approximately 22 minutes for their time shot at 1 p. m. (Boston time today they had been up 387 hours).

No indication when the motor will cross its own wing as they are in the air.

Word that the Minnesota endurance flier had crashed was sent up the wires by their wives, who enclosed notes for each of the breakfast.

was made by Pat Jeremiah P. Reardon who took Harry Peter of Gore St., Cambridge, into custody for driving without a license.

Reardon admitted he had never had a license and paid a $5 fine in Cambridge court.

The first cause of the driver was Pat William H. Coston of Division 1, North end, who in signaling a driver to stop caught his car's door handle.

In the city proper, the resulting traffic jams were of short duration. A very large percentage of the cars entering Boston had returned to the suburbs.

The examination points, by the Boston police, were as follows:

TWO SUICIDES IN HOTEL

EX-HUB GRIMM MAKE ZEPP TRIP ON WEDNESDAY

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Universal Service Special Cable Friedrichshafen, July 28.—The Great Zeppelin is ready for the hop-off for Lakehurst, Wednesday morning, at 7 o'clock, to the United States, tentatively set by Dr. Hugo Eckener for the start of the trip to America, but the commander will make a definite announcement of the time set today.

The fueling of the airship will be in today.

The final test of the great airliner ended with the landing of the Zeppelin after nearly 12 hours of cruising over Germany. Sailing majestically over the picturesque German cities the airship covered 800 miles.

Following the day's journey,
Capt. Ernst Lehmann said:
"We are putting the ship in shape for departing Wednesday morning, leaving the rest to the weather."

"The motors have been put through various tests at different revolutions, have been tested for vibrations by means of special devices and everything is perfect."

FOUGHT HEAD WIND
Dr. Eckener, at times, sped the ship at 75 miles an hour and went as high as 4500 feet. While the ship was facing head winds, the motors were stopped and then started, responding quickly.

"I am happy about the result of our flight today," Dr. Eckener told Universal Service. "The motors of the ship functioned perfectly. The Graf is all ready for its trip to America and also is all ready for its strenuous trip around the world."

"I am going to try to have the Zeppelin ready to start about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning for Lakehurst, but will be subject to position to set the time definitely later today. Then, of course, everything will depend upon the weather."

The Graf's performance on the test flight gives every promise that we will make a quick trip to America, but we made great steps in the advancement of air traffic as a result of the necessity for solving the problem caused by recent breakdown.

DEFIES HUSBAND
While the giant dirigible was winning its way over famous German cities on its final trial flight, a little drama was being enacted became the object of a strange and frantic pilgrimage, the love-story of Romana Leary.

A petite French girl, wife of the Russian pianist, Gregory Gourevitch, has arrived at Kurgarten Hotel and announced she is going on the giant dirigible with her husband.

FORMER HUD WOMAN
The three American women are Mrs. Mary Pierce, formerly of Boston, who is raising son George, the heart of Russia; Mrs. George Crosby, who is on the ship to come on her way to Cherbourg from New York; and the third is Anna May Wong, the Chinese-American movie actress.

They are all going to the ship arriving in Berlin from London and is coming in Friedrichshafen today.
All hope to be able to find a place in the ground-hold of the air.

Mrs. Catherine B. Stanford University graduate, and San Francisco-born wife of the Danish director of L. G. Farnes, Germany's great day trip, has applied for the trip several weeks ago, but her husband is even threatening legal action to prevent her going.

MEDICAL CLINIC WILL FEATURE SNOOK TRIAL

Columbus, O., July 28.—A medical clinic will be added to the setting of the trial of Dr. James Howard Snook for the alleged murder of Theresa Hill as another attraction for the murder-follower public.

The suggestion for the defense that it would show narcotics and excitants were administered to the former Ohio State University professor by the 24-year-old medical student he is alleged to have killed, was met today by a declaration from John J. Chatter, Jr., prosecutor, that he would produce assert witnesses to show that the drugs were ineffective.

"These witnesses," Chatter said,
"will show that the effects of using the drugs the defense referred to are not all what they are claimed to be."

If Chatter follows that plan, then the testimony will not only include an involved inquiry into Snook's mental condition, but also a scientific study of the results which follow the use of certain ancient stimulants.

Another phase of medical testimony was brought into prospect over the week and when Dr. H. M.
Brundage, a pathologist, testified that a nurse visited Dr. Snook and the nurse said that Snook had an hour with him.

Isabella Gill and Eva Fantes, nurses, heard Miss Richards scream, but were unable to reach her room before the intruder got away.

Sgt. W. J. Murphy and Patrolman Smith and LaRoque, who investigated, found fingerprints on the window in Miss Richards' room, and there were finger marks on the girl's cheek.

The snook threw the nurse living there into a state of consternation, coming so soon after the other attack.

Hot Weather Coffee

ICED coffee, of course, for sultry summer suppers and many a luncheon, too. But which of the fifty-seven varieties of iced coffee do you serve? The kind made from the breakfast leftover coffee or the fresh-made kind, quickly cooled over crushed ice, retaining all its flavoriness?

Mind you, I'm not suggesting you throw away any leftover morning coffee. Instead, use that for coffee tea, cream, frappe, parfait, coffee banana cream, coffee luncheon, coffee pudding, coffee tapioca jelly, iced coffee jelly, iced coffee cake with coffee filling, and coffee extract for icing. (And all of these recipes, by the way, are freely yours to repeat.)

Going back a little, even before the brewing of the coffee, I want to speak a little bit about the buying. Not very long ago I made a coffee survey in New England, which brought out some interesting facts. Among them, that the New England housewife realizes that in coffee there is perhaps more than in anything else, you can't lose something out of nothing. You may be able to keep a delicious eggless, butterless, and milkless cake, but for the perfect cup of coffee, whether iced or hot, you must have a quality coffee.

My best advice to you is to buy it. It stands to reason that when you buy a quality coffee, you get a pack which is brand right in his own factory and in his own brand. He is advertising his brand extensively, he would be coffee that is packed by the roasting, throwing away the money he spends on advertising if he did not see to it that the coffee is of the highest quality. But what is the quality? The quality you find in the advertised coffee is that it is a quality which is to it, it is a quality, that your coffee is kept absolutely bright and pure.

And sure, too, that your coffee is kept absolutely bright and pure. Remember that coffee contains two elements. First, the caffeine, which is the flavor is derived from the caffeine, from which comes the bitterness so often complained of in coffee. Caffeine is extracted from the ground coffee quickly only when the coffee comes in contact with freshly boiling water. If the water is not at the boiling point, the full amount of caffeine is not extracted, which means that the full amount of flavor is missing.

Extracted more easily with water below the boiling point, so you see the importance of making coffee only with actually boiling water. However, you get too much caffeine and not enough caffeine, or too much bitterness and not enough flavor. Measure accurately both the coffee and the water, or the flavor will vary. And for hot coffee keep the pot or percolator on the cups, saucers and spoons, in warm oven for a little while before using.

For perfect iced coffee, make your favorite coffee, and then use the method, but make it a little stronger. Fill hot glasses two-thirds full of crushed ice, pour on the boiling hot coffee, add sugar and cream to taste, and serve at once. As you will see from the picture, I am suggesting a hot-weather snack of iced coffee served with whole wheat crackers and cheese. These delicious whole wheat crackers are delicately buttered and salted and are equally good for old and young, would-be-the or would-be-plump, since whole wheat is a conditioning food.

There is really no meal in the day when this cracker cannot be appropriately served in reducing diets it is used with the morning cup of clear coffee. For luncheon it is indispensable with soups and salads. For afternoon tea it is delicious with sandwich spread, iced coffee, and as a bedtime snack gives insurance of dreamless sleep. Personally, I often substitute these crackers for my breakfast toast, repeat them with my luncheon salad and dinner soup, and again with milk at bedtime, and am never tired of their intriguing flavor.

Ginger Ale Is Best by Case

How do you think of ginger ale by the bottle or by the case? I'll guarantee that the individual bottle is the picture that those two words conjure up. And yet, ginger ale by the case is really the most economical, as well as the most comforting way to purchase this favorite beverage. I say comforting, for isn't it a comfort to know that with a case in your kitchen, you are always fortified against the unexpected as well as the expected guest.

Ginger ale can be served in one-third, grapefruit, two-thirds of one, or in a glass. It is especially popular in the summer months, when the sun and heat's specialty is the juice of one-half a lemon, the juice of one orange, plenty of ice, and a dash of ginger ale. The son and heir's specialty of the glass with ginger ale.

Some Famous Flapjacks

OVER in Florence, an American girl, a graduate of Columbia College, is earning her bread and butter and a liberal spreading of joy by operating a restaurant catering to the home-licked American appetites of American tourists and permanent residents.

"The house special" is flapjacks, of which the proprietress says, "Flapjacks must be baked in a hot iron at that. I had a special grade iron sent from New York, because I could find no one in Italy to make what I wanted. I generally heat my iron 20 minutes before I start baking the cakes. Twenty minutes is just the time."

And here's the recipe:
FLORENCE FLAPJACKS
1 cup flour
1 tbsp. baking powder
1 cup milk
1 egg
1 tbsp. melted butter
Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add beaten egg, milk and after beating thoroughly the melted butter. Cook on a greased and very hot iron. The secret of these cakes success, the author claims, is the amount of baking powder used. In fact, she says, that if you have a specialty pan griddle cake recipe, use that adding twice the usual amount of baking powder and see what happens.

Watermelon Rind Pickled Well Is Delicious

Parse the rind of a watermelon. Do not use the pink part. Cut in 1 inch pieces, and let stand in diluted vinegar—equal parts vinegar and water—to cover, for 12 hours. Boil until tender in same solution. Then drain well.

For a syrup, use 5 pounds sugar to 1 quart vinegar. Put in a preserving kettle, and add spice bag containing 2 ounces whole mace, 2 ounces whole cloves. Boil for 5 minutes. Put in melon rind and cook a few minutes. Remove rind from syrup and put into hot jars, being careful not to break pieces. Boil syrup down until thick, pour over rind in jars, and seal while hot.

From Watch Tower

THE green corn season is beginning in earnest, thanks to the bulk of our present supply. Within a few days you'll find some special corn recipes on the Magazine page of this paper. I hope you'll want to keep handy in your kitchen while this precious season lasts. At present the yellow corn is selling from 35 to 75 cents a dozen.

Beets are at their best, averaging 5 cents a bunch, and a few outdoor tomatoes have appeared, smooth and firm, at 20 cents a pound. Pumpkins are plentiful, from 15 cents to as high as 75 cents a dozen, depending on variety and abundance. The raspberries about 25 cents a basket and the blueberries from 30 cents to 45 cents. And there are still a few Maine and Nova Scotia strawberries.

Lemons are lower and poultry prices are attractive. Low fish prices help solve one problem, with perch at 25 to 30 cents.

Here's Tasty Supper Menu

Hungry—but nothing tastes good—it's so hot! Here is a combination, however, that provides a filling hot dish so delectable that it appeals to the most reluctant appetite. And don't be afraid of it because it is a soufflé. They are really quite simple to make.

Melt 2 tbsp. of butter and stir in smoothly 3 tbsp. of flour. Add 1 cup milk, stirring constantly until nearly boiling (about 5 minutes). Let cool and add 1 cup grated cheese, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. prepared mustard and the beaten yolks of 3 eggs.

Now beat the whites of the 3 eggs stiff and dry and fold them into the mixture. Turn into a buttered baking dish and cook 30 minutes in a slow oven. It is done when it is light brown on top and drawn away from the side of the pan.

While it is cooking make the following sauce to be served with the soufflé.

Cook 1 sliced onion with 1½ cups stewed tomatoes for 15 minutes. Season with ½ tsp. salt. Rub through strainer. Melt 3 tbsp. butter and stir in 3 tbsp. flour. Add strained tomatoes, stirring constantly for 3 or 4 minutes.

If you serve this dish with green peas and bread and butter it is an excellent combination—and a fruit salad dessert completes the best of the meal.

Savory Crab on Toast
Melt 2 tbsp. of butter with 1 pinch of rich milk or light cream and evaporated milk diluted 1½ with water. Season with salt, pepper, paprika and dash of grated onion.

Put in this mixture add 2 hard-boiled eggs thoroughly chopped and 2 green peppers cut lengthwise into very narrow strips. Stir in 1 can of Japanese crab meat, and 1 wine glass of tomato ketchup. Beat this in a heavy saucepan and when it bubbles add ½ cup of milk, grated cheese. Serve hot on buttered toast.

Miss Darlings Dainty Dish

From Miss Daurice F. Darling, director of the home service department of the Boston Consolidated Gas Co., we have this delicious fish recipe:

BAKED FISH WITH SHRIMP STEUPE
1 small onion chopped fine
2 tbsp. butter
1 cup shrimp, cut fine
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg
Pepper to taste
3 tbsp. tomato catchup, diluted with 3 tbsp. warm water
4 fish
Cook the onions slowly in the butter. Add the remaining ingredients. Mix well and stuff the fish. Sew together and dredge with salt, pepper and flour. Lay pieces of salt pork on fish and bake at 300 F. for 15 minutes to the point, covering the last half hour.

Sunshine in Cereal

"WHAT are irradiated cereals?" It's such a frequent question in my letter box these days. And I'll try to make the answer simple. While cereal is grown in the sun, it does not contain the very elements of sunlight which our bodies require. This invisible but actual quality is called Vitamin D and is essential to forming healthy bones and teeth. Children in particular need Vitamin D for this reason.

Now a very learned man has found a way to provide it in our everyday food in the irradiated cereals, oatmeal and farina. The creamy wheat granules are placed under the rays of an ultraviolet lamp. The beams of this sun lamp give them new energy, the vitamin of sunshine. It is really a remarkable food achievement.

EVEN SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS ARE INCREASED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Bankers from various sections of New England have in time passed expressed the fear to the writer that increasing speculation in Wall and State Streets would have the effect of lowering savings account deposits. Their fears appear to have been ill-founded. Speculation, as popularly defined, undoubtedly has increased by leaps and bounds, but savings deposits have not ceased to grow. The first simple comparison of New Hampshire's State Bank Commissioner, revealing an increase to $18,121,548.51 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, over $17,000,000 for the preceding year.

2. The increase amounts to $7,35,053.17, as compared with deposits at the end of the previous

W. F. S. Cousins, our well known financial authority, points out that speculation has been viewed from the standpoint of whether stocks are bought to hold or sell. Mr. Cousins says that there has been an enormous increase in the daily turnover of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, the Curb Exchange, the Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and other local exchanges. There has also been a surprising decrease in the amount of reckless and daring speculation as compared with two, or three decades ago, according

W. S. Cousins to skilled economists who have given painstaking study to this subject.

"The principal factor in the rise of speculation in stocks is the fact that the investors are buying the shares for permanent possession rather than for quick trading profits, as in the pre-war days."

"In other words, stocks now STAY BOUGHT instead of being shifted and shunted around on the financial trade winds. Though the ranks of professional traders have been largely increased and day-to-day trading properly understood, the public has been tempted, the public has been tem-

“Arguing strictly from the basis of supply and demand, it is not hard to see that personal and corporate wealth in the last decade has increased much faster than the supply of new stock, and this alone would have a tendency to shorten the supply of floating supplies available for the market.”

“The army of investors has enormously increased, some important authorities estimating the size of the army at 15,000,000 people. This is probably 100 per cent over-estimated, but 7,000,000 investors constitutes an investment fund of 1000 per cent above pre-war days.”

"Industrial corporations in the last year or two have been attempting to remedy the matter of a shortage in the value of first-class speculative and dividend-paying stocks, and for a time it looked as though the stock market would gradually pick up. The best evidence of the fallacy of this conclusion is the fact that United States Steel, after being distributed to stockholders at $140 a share, has advanced to well over $200 a share in the listed market, and that similar upward movements have been recorded in other stocks offered under similar con-

"The field of stock buying has been considerably broadened of late by the absorption of stocks by the investment trusts, the purchase of stock by employees of big corporations under profit sharing plans, the purchase of stocks for the safety deposit boxes by thrifty but intelligent investors all over the country, and in Europe as well; increased buying by the savings banks, the insurance companies, the surety companies, whose investments are closely supervised and whose available funds for stock and bond investments have been increasing by leaps and bounds.

Alexander Hamilton Institute reports: "Business has apparently several months of prosperity ahead before this phase of the business cycle terminates. While it is probable that the readjustment period will begin before the end of 1929, the prospect is that it will come too late in the year to prevent the attainment of many new high annual records. In this respect the year 1929 promises to be similar to 1926."

Justification for the forecast of new high records this year is found in the showing made during the first six months. Total factory output during this period was the highest on record with manufacturers using 13.7 per cent more electricity for power than a year ago. Freight car loadings were record breaking. New high production records were made by automobiles, pig iron, steel ingots, petroleum, gasoline, fuel oil, automobiles, tires, copper, silk goods, rayon, cigarettes and electricity.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The "question" was recently asked in the columns of this paper: "Is the public really so stupid?" The question was first suggested by the large number of letters received from readers complaining that they were themselves not enjoying any advantage from the new prospecting procedure and that their companies would be ruined by the new procedure. It seemed to be contrary to the relatively few people.

The replies received by the "question" were:

Idle Money a Menace to Orderly Business Progress

NEW YORK, July 29.—The danger of "capital inflation" has frequently been referred to as constituting a menace to the orderly progress of American business and particularly as diverting cash and other resources from business and industry to speculative investments of stock speculation.

It is the opinion of many authorities that individual citizens and their corporations are accumulating idle funds when wealth accumulates faster than it can be effectively expended. What is the idle

Mr. Simmons, who should have had an old-fashioned influenza, spoke in business upon an aggravated case. Fortunately, he points out, the good sense of American business men will prevent the Surplus funds for this and other reasons, have found a safe and satisfactory outlet in the stock market. This is the basic reason for the accumulation of idle money, and the flotation in this country and abroad of securities on a standard American basis.

Many people, still quoting Mr. Simmons, have misunderstood the

The company is not only expanding geographically and by itself, and this is the first time that the product has been used to term it "inflation" and "inflation" in the American securities market has been an absolute essential factor in the commercial and industrial stability.

Shook Exchange heads, and representation by President E. J. Stinson, reports the charge of manipulation against the "big boys" on the exchanges and government intervention, but it still quotes me to prove the fact that thousands of Americans are losing their life savings on the securities on which they place their bets. The securities know about them. The securities know about them.

Should the funds be utilized only for the redemption of United States government bonds, municipal bonds, and bonds of other municipal bonds of other descriptions, paying interest on the securities? Should it tie itself up with private American wealth and find expression in the purchase of property, including manufacturing plants, and the purchase of automobiles, homes, commercial buildings, and other means of production and enjoyment, second class and below, and the purchase of either home or foreign stocks, as the money income and the supply of good securities diminish, prices rise and thus has the story of the last five years. Whether or not the government, by raising prices, to the neglect of the bond market, is really contributing to the body's gains, but Wall Street is prepared to force the securities on an ever-increasing scale, sending the confidence in a bond market

How to Pick a Safe Bank; Lower Deals Stir Up Fears focuses attention on the prudence in the selection of assets. The regulator insists that follows losses to positions is greater than the losses to positions from speculation. The regulator knowingly accepts the fact that the banks are making large returns. The bank, however, is promised no more than a fair rate of return. He wants and needs to know the assets of American's leading banks are stronger or safer than the assets of the banks in the rest of the country. He wants to know the assets of the state banks in agricultural areas, in the mountain areas, in the northwest and company which buys and sells commodities. "These companies may use various methods to keep rates above the competitive level, which might otherwise cause the subsidiaries to pay charges for warehousing, insurance, etc., and management, etc., and other costs, but are beyond the scope of this study," says Mark Hanna made McKinley President, he was backed by the tariff beneficiaries of Pennsylvania and New England. Wall Street carried little or nothing about the tariff except as a plain business proposition for particular schemes and new industries.

The spottiness of the present situation is reflected by the fact that in the midst of unprecedented prosperity for some companies the bankers have found it necessary to draw up a plan of reorganization for the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation.

"Wall Street was more concerned in 1901 with the mammoth United States Steel Corporation, then getting itself born, than with the entire New England textile situation."

"What is the underlying fallacy of those who want ever higher and higher tariffs? It is that they do not want merely a duty which

NEW PLANES TO ENTER 'FOOL PROOF' TESTS

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 29 (INS)—Tests in the International Safe Aircraft Competition, sponsored by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aviation, will be resumed at Roosevelt Field some time this week.

The competition, which has as its purpose the development of the "fool proof" airplane, was officially opened with a number of tests several weeks ago and will continue at frequent intervals throughout the summer.

This week, according to an announcement made today by Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the fund, six new American manufacturing companies are entered in the competition. These additional entries swell the total number of firms participating in the competition to 16.

Two British entries—Vickers, Ltd. and the De Havilland Aircraft Company, Ltd.—recently have been forced to withdraw because of the extreme pressure of work. The British Government requirements.

The new entries are as follows: The Comair Aircraft Corporation, Bridgeport, Ct., submitting a new type cabin plane, incorporating a special type of aileron and flap in combination Warner engine.

Cunningham-Hill Aircraft Corporation, Rochester, N. Y., submitting a two-place, low wing, semi-canoe monoplane; high lift wing with special flaps and special control; Genet engine.

Wilton, N. Y., July 28—John A. Herlihy, chief engineer of the Transcontinental Air Transport Co., spent a weekend visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Herlihy.

LUCKY DOLLAR IS FOUND AT CAMP DEVENS

By WON LUCKY BILL
All quiet on the Western Front—till there's plenty of action on the other three fronts in Camp Devens. Yes three ever since one of those old Lucky bucks joined the Citizen's Military Training Camp bedlam has let loose among the boys.

"Halt! What Serial Number goes there?" that's the cry that greets Mr. Old One Dollar Bill at Camp Devens now. The reason being: JOSEPH PIADDO, of Brook Brook, Ct. member of Company C, walked into canteen and purchased a bottle of soda water with a $2 bill. Lucky Buck L47032010 was handed to him for change. We're sending you a check for $2 by mail.

JOHN A. STUART, 3 Closter at Methuen, Mass. has sent in Lucky Buck L47032010 which he received in change in a Methuen store. This only goes to show you never can tell where you'll find these lost Lucky bills.

JOHN KILBANE, Broadway Theater, Lawrence, Mass. also sends in a Lucky Buck, No. H6103339D. John says a cigar store clerk "slipped" it over to him in change for a package of cigarettes. This makes three Lucky bucks that have turned up in Lawrence within a week.

So there's the story of the three holders of old Lucky dollar bills who cashed in over the week-end. Right here I want to state that these old $1 Lucky bills are not wanderers about ready to be captured in Boston and its environs alone. They've been put into circulation everywhere. The Boston Evening American is read and the living out of the Greater Boston district are in on the game as well as Bostonians.

If you get one of the Lucky bills in Springfield or Providence or any place else, send it in by registered mail to Lucky Money Game Editor, Boston Evening American, Boston. I will remit either $100 or bring your Lucky bucks in to me. Here's the only receipt for picking up this easy money. Keep your eyes open for Lucky old $1 bills. You'll find the list of outstanding Lucky bucks printed in another column on this page. Watch out for 'em.

Seeks Change of Venue
White Plains, N. Y., July 29 (INS)—Earle F. Peacock, confessed torch singer of his wife, will move for a change of venue when he comes to trial here tomorrow. He says the minds of the crime have so inflamed Westchester County that he cannot obtain a fair trial.

Moss? No, 'Tis Wives Rolling Vet Gathers

Washington, July 29 (INS)—Marty Mathews of Omaha, Neb., likes to travel and he gathers "wives" as he goes along. When he applied at the American Legion headquarters here for aid he introduced a young woman as his wife and said they had hitchhiked from Omaha and were reduced to 13 cents. They were sent to a hotel and told to report the next day.

Then he developed that Mathews had come here to have his guard changed by the Coleman's Bureau, declaring he had been adjudged incompetent. "When were you married?" he was asked. When he said eight months ago in Nebraska, it became necessary to arrange to send him back home to have the change made. The Legion of Omaha was telegraphed for funds.

"No funds for Mathews," came the answer. "We have already brought him back 17 times." The Omaha Legion pointed out that Mathews, being an "incompetent," couldn't contract a marriage and the lady was not his "wife." Local headquarters sent them both back away.

Moore, on Track, Killed by Engine
Brunswick, Me., July 29 (AP)—A calf moose which wandered onto the tracks near Richmond today was killed by the locomotive of a train of the Maine Central railroad, the train crew reported on arrival.

Several moose were seen about Brunswick, Richmond and Bowdoinham last fall.

GUARD COURT IN TRIAL OF 15 IN LABOR WAR

Gastonia, N. C., July 29 (INS)—Amid tense scenes bordering on class warfare, 15 strikers and wing of labor today began a battle against the electric chair for the assassination of Police Chief O. F. Adair.

Before the opening of court several hundred persons milled around the courthouse. Because the trial comes in the midst of labor disturbances and because sentiment has been fanned into fever heat in this section by propaganda, mass meetings and sabotage and demonstrations, extra deputies were on hand to thwart possible violence.

A last-minute statement by the prosecution staff said every effort would be directed toward keeping references to Communism and religion out of the proceedings, but it remained obvious that the trial of the 15 men and three women would weave into a spectacular labor-cumulative fight.

The pallid-faced prisoners have been held in jail since the police officer was slain during a strike meeting of June 7.

Makes Alcohol From Olive Oil Refuse Says 'Keep Working'

Rome, July 29 (INS)—Far from the turmoil of political strife and his state duties, Premier Benito Mussolini observed his 46th birthday today very quietly with his family.

Before leaving Rome Premier Mussolini told government officials that he did not wish any public observance. He said he did not want the workers to lose any time by adding any more holidays to the number already existing in Italy.

SECOND HUSBY QUITS GLADYS APPLETON

Former Boston Society Girl
Divorced in Paris as Latest Romance Hits the Rocks

Dispatches from Paris indicated that Gladys Appleton Wertheim, former Baroness Hapsburg, was divorced from her husband, Prince Carl of Hapsburg, and had married Walter Wertheim of Astoria, Ore. Wertheim, husband of the charge of desecration.

Miss Appleton was one of the most beautiful and popular members of London's exclusive society. She was married to Prince Carl of Hapsburg, who died by entering Hong Kong's harbor in 1922.

It was there that she met her first husband, Sir Daniel Preston, a naval officer and British surgeon of great prominence. They were married in 1921 but the match ended in the divorce of 1924.

After her divorce, Gladys Appleton remarried, but this time she married successfully a man of her own rank, a duke of England.

WHEREABOUTS COURTSHIP

It was in the city of Vienna, where she was living, that Gladys Wertheim met the famous First Dragoon Guards and who had been married to her first husband, Prince Carl of Hapsburg, who died by entering Hong Kong's harbor in 1922.
